

A wide-angle photograph of a large, multi-level indoor shopping mall. The space is characterized by its ornate design, featuring large, spherical, lantern-like light fixtures hanging from the ceiling, each adorned with greenery. The architecture includes multiple levels connected by escalators and stairs, with various shops and kiosks visible on each floor. The ground floor has a patterned tile floor, and there are decorative planters with red flowers throughout the space. The overall atmosphere is bright and festive.
